WHEELING, MARCH 10, 1890.

Mr. Morris, who thought General Gold had damaged him $30,000, is not getting very near a sight of a check for that amount. Perhaps he did but just.

Judge Evans, of Pittsburgh, says he will take the faith in "soft drinks." It might be different with the Judge if he would mix a little mustard seed with his "soft drinks."

Spring trade is making a lively showing through the columns of the INTELLIGENCER. The wise shopper does her shopping early, before the best things have been shipped over.

Attention is called to the interesting fact that within a few years the Treasurer of each of the Democratic States of Alabama, Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee has defaulted. This regard cannot be equaled among the Republican States.

Remon credits ex-President Cleveland with refusing a salary of $50,000 a year offered by an English syndicate. Perhaps he thinks it can't deliver the goods. An English syndicate offered him that salary with the White House thrown in, but it found the market cornered and couldn't make the delivery. A burnt child locks the door when the horse is out.

At the session of the Washington M. E. Conference, held at Frederick, Maryland, Bishop Foster said: "I would be glad if, at the close of this address, ten men, no matter who they are, would rise up and ask to be dismissed from this Conference, and if not, I hope they will solemnly vow never to partake of intoxicants in the future." Nobody stood up to be identified. It was an odd way to make a strong point.

Another Lesson for New York. No city in the Union has had more frequent and pointed reminders than New York has had of the money value of giving strict attention to the matter of local government, and no city has seemed to give less heed to the lessons of sad experience.

Now there is another exposure and another rumormongering, but presently the affair will end—possibly with some men in the penitentiary who have had a considerable "awing" in their wards—and then the harvest will begin to ripen for another fine crop of rascality.

West Virginia Oil. West Virginia as oil territory continues to forge to the front. One trouble with the home fields is that thousands of acres are in the hands of speculators who have no money to develop with, and other thousands are in the hands of persons whose present interest is to arrest development. The season now opening promises more drilling for oil than the State has ever seen. There will be hits and misses, and the lucky fellows will roll in fatness. Not much will be heard of the unfortunates who drop down the dry holes.

Timber Land Values. The timber on 5,000 acres of land near Johnston has been sold for $350,000. That amount of money will buy many more thousands of acres in West Virginia, and it may be doubted whether any timber left standing in Pennsylvania is the equal of West Virginia timber now going for a song, but with a pronounced creosote movement.

The world is finding out about the cheap coal and timber lands of West Virginia, and in a year the prices of today will in some cases be trebled, even quadrupled. The value is here, and the shrewd men of the country are hearing about it. West Virginia is a great timber and coal preserve in the heart of civilization, near the best markets of the country.

The Way of the World. A wife had reason to know that her husband was in a fashionable New York hotel with another woman. The wife made a scene, presenting herself with a drawn revolver, unloaded.

If there had been a mad dog in the hotel there could not have been more of a stampede. Under the circumstances a policeman was readily found and the wife was marched off to the police station for the night. Next morning she was permitted to depart in peace.

It does not seem to have occurred to anybody that the husband was a good man to arrest, and with him the strange woman. The moral of this story is that it is better to be a strange woman than a wife, and this does not seem to be a really moral moral, either.

Trouble for the Young Emperor. Since there has been a United Germany Bismarck has been its real ruler. The present young Emperor is the first of three Emperors to dispute his mastery. Whether the situation which brings about the resignation of this remarkable man is a good or bad thing for the empire, is a question which time must decide.

Self-willed and harsh in many respects as Bismarck's rule has been it has given confidence at home, brought strength out of weakness, inspired respect abroad and made United Germany a power of the very first importance.

Seeing what Bismarck has been and still is to Germany, a young man new to the business of governing might well have hesitated to force him out of position and power, and this seems to be what has happened. The selection of a successor to the Chancellor is giving the Emperor trouble. He will be fortunate if the affair bring him no more trouble.

It will be little short of marvelous if he have the wisdom to pass by Bismarck.

phants and flatterers and select for the succession the best man after Bismarck for the place.

The Sugar Tariff.

The sugar tariff has failed to build up a producing industry to supply home demands, and there is no indication that a continuation of the present duty or that twice as great a duty would stimulate a material increase in production. This being true, and the duty not being needed as revenue, it is wise to cut down the rate.

The proposed reduction is an average of about one-half, a strong cut but apparently justified by the circumstances. The cane sugar section cannot complain, for it sends Free Traders to Congress. This is not what they call themselves, but they allow the Democratic caucus to speak for them on the tariff question, and this gives them their rating.

National Control of Congressional Elections.

Whether it be the Lodge bill or the Kelly bill, or a measure taking something from each, Congress is likely to adopt a bill placing Congressional elections under National control. There will naturally be differences as to details, but the drift of Republican sentiment in both houses of Congress is clearly in favor of the general proposition.

Long experience has shown that it is idle to hope for fair elections under State law. While this may suit the people of a State, or at least the winning side, in its final result it does not suit the people of the United States, and it is their right to have Representatives in Congress, no matter from what State, chosen under laws satisfactory to them, so far as the Constitution allows.

Fortunately the proposition to place the election of Representatives under National control is provided for by the Constitution. This general control established, backed by an act of Congress providing for new districts once in ten years following the census, will give to the country such a guarantee of fair elections for Congress as it has never had.

The proposed measures are not partisan, though they will probably meet with all the opposition the Democratic party is capable of offering. The reason for that opposition is obvious.

Yesterday Morning's Police Court.

In Police Court yesterday morning, James Baron, of the Eighth ward, who was arrested for raising a big racket at his home and whose case was continued at Monday morning's session of this court owing to the absence of witnesses, failed to put in an appearance; a fine of $10 and costs was assessed against him to be collected when he is again apprehended. The witness, who was on hand yesterday morning, the three tramps arrested by Heil for being drunk and raising a disturbance in the Second ward market square, were fined $1 and costs each, and in default of payment sent to the jail for fifteen days each. Frank O'Neil and Charles Dunn, the two pugilists from over the river, who were arrested by Bell, while indulging in a stinging match at the corner of Market and Sixteenth streets, were fined $5 and costs each. They first went to the bill, but later in the day friends paid their fines and took them out.

The Standard. "I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as having passed above the grade of what are commonly called patent or proprietary medicines," said a prominent physician recently. "It is fully entitled to be considered a standard medicine, and has won this position by its undoubted merit and by the many remarkable cures it has effected. For an alternative and tonic it has never been equaled."

As Itch as Cresson. El Zane, of 1306 Thompson St., is a lucky man. He has just drawn a twentieth of the second capital prize of $100,000 in the Louisiana State Lottery and finds himself the possessor of $5,000. "Am I happy?" he repeated to an Item reporter, who called on him. "Well, I should smile! What do you expect of a man who gets $5,000 for one dollar? Why, I feel as rich as Cresson." Philadelphia (Pa.) Item, January 31.

"Say, waiter, I reckon you've taken my order all wrong. I ordered a spring chicken and a bottle of 'St. Clare.' Here you've gone and brought me a 'St. Clare' and a bottle of spring chicken."

Modern Discoveries. What Bell and Edison are to the telephone and electricity, says the Pittsburgh Courier, is Dr. J. C. Miller, the well-known specialist in nervous diseases, is to the nervous system and nerve fluid. Among his numerous discoveries his Restorative Nerve is undoubtedly the most important. It is a suppository in suppositories, dyspepsia, headache, epilepsy, neuralgia, backache, melancholy, sleeplessness, change of life, etc. Free trial bottles of it may be had of the Logan Drug Co., Druggists, and also Dr. Miller's new book on "Nerve and Stomach" for the afflicted. Every one should read this very interesting, instructive, and finely illustrated book.

That tired, debilitated feeling, so peculiar to Spring, indicates depraved blood. Now is the time to prove the beneficial effects of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It cleanses the system, restores physical energy, and induces new life and vigor into every fibre of the body.

"Concise is an essential to gentleness." "How so?" "A true gentleman never forgets himself."

PERHAPS no local disease has puzzled and baffled the medical profession more than nasal catarrh. While not immediately dangerous, it is the most distressing and disgusting of the flesh is heir to, and the records show very few or no cases of radical cure of chronic catarrh by any of the multitude of modes of treatment of late years. The success of this preparation has been most gratifying and surprising.

TRAVEL IN CHICAGO.

The Speed of Railroad Trains—New Regulations Passed by the Council.

Chicago, March 18.—The vigorous protest of the suburbanites against the action of the railroad companies in recently reducing the speed of all trains to ten miles an hour or less inside the city limits, in compliance with an ordinance enacted years ago, has had its effect. The City Council passed an ordinance last night after a lengthy discussion. It provides that the city shall have the right to require the railroad companies to build on each side of their rights of way substantial walls or fences of such material and size, design and within such period as the Mayor and Commissioners of Public Works may determine, and to erect and maintain gates and signal bells at such crossings as shall be designated by the Mayor and Commissioner of Public Works. No road is allowed to take advantage of the ordinance until it complies with its provisions. Railroads failing to do this are to be governed by the old ten miles an hour ordinance.
